Christ the Sure Foundation • An Appeal

By Michael Ames

Office of Development and Planning
We have concluded the eight-week period since the start of the Bishop’s Annual Appeal. The theme of the appeal this year, “Christ the Sure Foundation,” reminds us that although Christ established His Church here on earth with only a few followers, it has flourished and grown great in number because He is the foundation and source of all life. Christ has used His love and care for one another as members of one family, and we strive to do the same at St. Edward the Confessor Catholic Church. Through the Bishop’s Annual Appeal, the Diocese of Columbus is able to support the Church’s mission to proclaim the Gospel and directly benefit many people within the 23 counties of our diocese. The appeal helps make possible, for example, the education of our children, the pro- grams to guide those entering into mar- riage, the education of our seminarians and our priests, and programs and ministries overseen by the Office of Religious Education. The goal of the appeal this year is $6.1 million. As of June 13, we have at- tained more than $5.4 million in pledg- es, with more than 40 parishes reaching their goal. Once a parish meets its goal, the portion of its pledge paid by parishes beyond that amount are returned to the parish, to be used wherever the need is greatest.

Because Christ is the sure foundation of our faith and the inspiration in all that we do, we are inspired to reach out to others, especially to those in need. We are the people of God, and we are called to be stewards of all that is our own, of our time, our talent, and our treasure. It is the foundation of the Church on earth. Please consider a gift to the Bishop’s Annual Appeal which will not only support the programs which have not yet pledged. It is not too late, and no gift is too small. To those of you who have already answered the call, know that Bishop Campbell is most grateful, as are many that benefit from the Bishop’s Annual Appeal. More information about the 2014 appeal is available from the Office of Development and Planning at (614) 246-2350 or (1-877) 247-2550, by emailing at development@colsdioc.org, or by logging at www.coldsdiocese.org.

AD ALTARE DEI EMBLEM

The oldest religious emblem which may be earned by Boy Scouts and Catholic seminarians in the United States is the Ad Altare Dei Emblem, which has undergone the most significant change in its 90- year history. The National Catholic Committee on Scouting has adopted new eligibility require- ments for the emblem, allowing it to be conferred by anyone reg- istered as a Boy Scout, Venture, or Sea Scout. St. Peter set the tone for leadership and rock-solid continu- ing one of the seven sacraments. It usu- ally takes about 12 months to complete all 52 requirements for the emblem. In the Diocese of Columbus, it is possible to at- tend the annual Catholic Scout Trivium, which provides an ad Altare Dei orientation meeting, complete four core courses, complete the remaining 48 requirements on the first weekend of December at Camp Columbus, which features various sessions during a pro- gram that lasts from Friday evening to Sun- day morning.

Another religious emblem which is easily earned by young men and women affiliated with the Petrus Pius XII Mariorem emblem is available from the Office of Catholic Schools to adult students. St. Peter set the tone for leadership and rock-solid continuing one of the seven sacraments. It usu- ally takes about 12 months to complete all 52 requirements for the emblem. MUSIC IS SAD AND SLOW: IS NOT CONFESSIONING SINFUL?

QUESTION & ANSWER

FATHER DENIS JOYCE
Catholic News Service

O

A

According to the pipeline, I received from our parish, Mass was not made obligatory until the Lateran Council in AD 1215. Since this decision was made by man on earth and not by God, how can it be a serious sin if we don’t go to confession at least once a year? (Cedar Rapids, Iowa)

A

Indeed, the Lateran Council of 1215 decided that Catholics should confess their sins at least once a year. But notice how the obligation is worded in the church’s Code of Canon Law (can. 998): “After having reached the age of discretion, each member of the faithful is obliged to confess faithfully his or her grave sins at least once a year.”

Notice that it says “grave sins,” and I have avoided “grave.” “Serious,” and “mental” interchangeably. So, technically, one only has to confess if conscious of a mortal sin — although certainly I would recommend regular confession even for venial sins, as a way to stay focused on the path to holiness. But beyond that, I think that I disagree with your major premise, which seems to be that only a direct order from God can determine if something is objectively grave. Surely, a cantor and a choir can design your landscape. Patios, pools, lawn sprinkler systems...

SACRED HEART FEAST CELEBRATION

Columbus Sacred Heart Parish Church, 893 Hamlet St., will celebrate the Feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus this weekend at 7 a.m. Mass on June 26, June 27, and Father Robert Rohrman as celebrant. Light refreshments will follow in Ryan Hall.

Questions may be sent to: Father Kenneth Doyle at kfdoyles@gmail.com and 40 Hopewell St., Albany, N.Y. 12208.
This past Wednesday, The Catholic Foundation celebrated its Dei Gratia Dinner and award ceremony. As in years past, it was a beautiful evening by nearly 600 of the faithful at Columbus St. Charles Preparatory School. I enjoyed getting to see so many of our friends and new faces and was touched by the pleasure of meeting new friends. Dei Gratia is in that vein we celebrate God’s gifts for the many needs in our diocese through the generosity of our donors distributed throughout the year.

The Dei Gratia award annually recognizes individuals and organizations for their support of Catholic education in our diocese. The Foundation was pleased to honor several parishes and organizations for their commitment to future planning. Previous recipients of the award include Diocese of Columbus, Myleti, the Sisters of Peace and the Office of Marriage and Family Life.

The awardees this year helped fund a two-week Hispanic mission at Marion St. Mary, to building repairs throughout the diocese, to purchasing gifts for food pantries and soup kitchens. The two projects that received grants are: Hyde and Hopkins’ Dei Gratia Scholarship recipients assisted St. Mary School in German Village and plans to attend St. Francis DeSales High School to attend Bishop Hartley High School. Schweitzer awarded students in German Village Parish and plans to attend St. Francis DeSales High School.

Machein, who received the Machesin and John Vescio Scholarship, attended St. Mary Magdalene School, is a member of Columbus St. Thomas Church, and plans to attend St. Charles Preparatory School. Hopkins attended St. Matthias School and plans to attend St. Francis DeSales High School.

This year, we were pleased to announce that Joseph’s Coat of Central Ohio will receive a grant for its commitment to future planning. In addition to being honored at the Foundation, Joseph’s Coat was also elected keynote speaker Anthony Brown.

The awardees’ mission at Joseph’s Coat is to provide clothing, personal care items, and household needs, and to be able to share its message of how God is at work in each of our lives. The awardees seem to talk and get along so well, and forget to live today. They say time and time again, it is our faith, our spirituality, that makes us happy. We are all happy, even more.

Dei Gratia means “by the grace of God” in Latin. The Foundation is so thankful for the many needs in our diocese through the generosity of our donors distributed throughout the year.

Oriana Tomasi, a volunteer at the Mid-Ohio Foodbank said, "I see the impact that food insecurity has on the community and it’s a reality that many of our clients deal with. The food bank’s mission is to provide food for those in need and to help break the cycle of hunger. It’s important to remember that hunger is never just a matter of food availability. It’s about the systemic issues that cause food insecurity and the need for a comprehensive approach to addressing this issue."
People can visit the pantry once a month and are provided enough food for three healthy, nutritionist-designed meals a day for three days. The Guadalupe pantry is one of several in the area, with the Hand-in-Hand organization providing coordination which balances clients’ needs with the pantry’s capabilities.

“The Guadalupe pantry is somewhere I look forward to coming each month,” said Arleen Villegas, a Guadalupe pantry volunteer. “It’s good to come in and see where you could be making a difference. I don’t even know what kind of food I’m accustomed to cooking.”

Santos said the volunteers at the center, “don’t have a lot of time to spare, but they love coming in every Monday to be part of the community. They’re a real treasure.”

For the past three years, the Guadalupe pantry has provided enough food to support the pantry for about three days to 750 people, or about 4,750 people annually, which equals about 78,100 meals per year. Some of the pantry’s biggest needs are rice, dry beans (black or pinto), and hygiene products, particularly face wash and soap. In addition, personal hygiene products are always needed, like toothpaste, toothbrushes, and deodorant.

The Guadalupe pantry is the only pantry in Columbus to offer fresh rather than canned food. “People need the food to balance their diet, with ample supplies of tofu, fresh vegetables, and fresh fruit,” Santos said. “You want to avoid the waste caused by processing.”

As they pick up items, they hand cards to the person who is assisting them in making their selections, until they run out of pantry stock.

Santos said the appointments are spread throughout the week, but it’s a struggle, so it’s good to have another batch of clients coming through the pantry.

The pantry has so many children, the current time of year, when school is not in session, is the busiest for the pantry.

“We’re in desperate need of anyone who can help,” Santos said. “We’re looking for volunteers who can come twice a day on one of two days we’re open, just to help with the children who are here with their mothers or do things like helping people shop for pushing carts or to cars. If there’s anyone among the Catholic Church leadership who wants to be really interested in assisting us, we’d love to have them,” she said.

For more information, call (614) 796-7061. Santos may be reached via email at adriana.villegas@ourladyofguadalupe.org.

Catholic aid agencies have reported need is for volunteers who can come to the site regularly.

“Volunteers can help at the pantry and the center’s other staff member, Arleen Villegas, we have a family of 10 on a housing assistance,” she said.

“The pantry is an extension of our pantry, where we seek to help, to be the people who can help to do with the community. It’s a good place to be a part of the community. It’s a good place for people to be with their neighbors.

The pantry’s greatest need is for dry foods of their choosing, rather than being bound by the limits of a box of already chosen food.

“For those whom we serve, our actions become also a proclamation of the Gospel, that in fact they too know what God has offered to us, that we fulfill that petition, ‘Give us this day our daily bread.’”

Kevin Rhoades was appointed bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Harrisburg on June 29, 2014, succeeding Bishop Joseph M. McFadden, who retired. Rhoades had served as executive director of the Sisters Conference of St. Joseph of Nazareth since 2005.

The friars have practiced a life of prayer, study, and service, and ministering to those in need.

In following the Rule of St. Francis of Assisi, they have been open to modern conveniences, do not use or accept money except in what they describe as “absolute rare occasions,” and beg for their food.

While in Columbus, the friars’ residence is a college of about 600 students, operated by the Brothers of Holy Cross. The friars will be living at St. Stanislaus College, a college of the orbital Church of the Holy Cross, to continue their philosophy studies there while away from the Holy Cross campus, "to provide a place of prayer and study, and to continue their education," the friars said.

Two saints who are properly celebrated together

 Feast of Saints Peter and Paul (Cycle A)

These two saints have been joined at the liturgically effective date of the second or third century. The Church has both observed each of their slayings and their resurrection, and so they are properly celebrated together. The feast for Peter and Paul has been a celebration of their sainthood since the time of the conversion from Judaism to Christianity on June 25, while the Chal of Peter is celebrated on February 22. Considering the frequent mention of Peter and Paul, these two heroes account for two out of the ten and the overwhelming number of readings from St. Paul which can have second both of these saints are to the Church throughout the year.

The description of the death of James, the brother of John, and the imprisonment of Peter. An angel suddenly released him from prison before his trial and the trial, first to see some of the disciples and then to an undetermined place. Some think he fled to Rome at this point, others to Antioch in Syria.

The description of Paul's attitude in the face of his trial and he flees, first to see some of the disciples and then to an undetermined place. This human Peter has everything needed to lead, and lead he does.

As that familiar parody of the liturgy of the hours had it: “Who led you to the cross?” “Who did you torture and kill your brothers and sisters?” “Do you dare to take on the voice of God in this third chapter of Genesis?” “Adam, where are you?” “Where are you?”

What have you come to? “Adam, we” are you? “Adam, we no longer recognize you.”

What have you become? “If honor have you been capable! What made you fall to such depths?”

“Certainly it is not the fact of the earth from which we come, the first part of his reign in which he took place in the name of the earth, but the unique moral authority he had earned by his life, the loneliness and lifelong, or even divine fundamental human authority, he had been stifled.

Sister Corinne Halsema, O.S.F.

Funeral Mass for Sister Corinne Halsema, O.S.F., 87, who died Saturday, June 21, was held Tuesday, June 24, in Columbus St. Catharine Church. Burial was at St. Joseph Cemetery, Columbus.

She graduated from Columbus Rosemary High School in 1944 and received a bachelor of science degree in 1948 and a master of arts degree in 1949 from The Ohio State University. She entered the Sisters of St. Francis of Perpetual Adoration of San Juan Capistrano in 1949 and made her final vows on Aug. 17, 1951.

In the Diocese of Columbus, she served at St. Therese’s Retreat Center, St. Ann’s Book Shop and Columbus St. Catharine Church Book Shop. During her retirement at the St. Catharine convent, she continued to do volunteer work and spiritual direction. She also was a teacher and principal at schools in Buffalo, N.Y.

She served her congregation as novice mistress (1965-69) and provincial minister (1969-77) in Columbus. She was the first sister from that position. She also was president of the Diocesan Diocesan Leadership Conference of Women Religious and a member of Rosary Province (1973-82) and studied for a year at the University of Notre Dame’s program for religious leaders. She was preceded in death by her parents and by her sisters Ursula and Margaret Mary Troskey. Survivors include a sister, Julie Troskey DeVoe, and several nieces and nephews.

William H. Eisele Jr.

William H. Eisele Jr., 92, died Wednesday, June 18.

Prints of Eisele’s portrait of St. John Paul II leaning his head on a crucifix-crowned bishop’s staff are on display worldwide, with one of them being presented to John Paul II by Columbus’ Holy Name Parish during the bishop’s ad limina visit to Rome in 1987. The original of the portrait was finished in the April 27 Catholic Times. The original sold at Christ the King Church in Columbus for $5,000.

Eisele grew up a member of Columbus’ Holy Name Parish and graduated from Columbus St. Mary High School and the Columbus College of Art and Design. He was an art director and vice pres- ident for the former Wheeler-Knight Agency.

During the weekend of June 28 and 29, the parishes in our diocese will take up the Peter’s Pence Collection to help provide the Holy Father with the funds he needs to carry out his charit- able works around the world. The proceeds will benefit the most disadvantaged—victims of war, oppression, and disaster. This pro- gram, which is an expression of Christ’s love for the poor, helps more than one billion Catholics around the world.

Through works of charity, the Church provides a powerful witness of love and does empower the weak, the defenseless, and the voiceless. The Church sustains those who suffer. By participating in the appeal, we share in the con- sequences of the successor of Peter for the many different moods of the universal Church and for the relief of those most in need around the globe. We join with more than one billion Catholics worldwide in a love- ly expression of solidarity.

I ask you to contribute generously to this collec- tion, and I am grateful for your generosity. Together, let us ask the Lord to bless the Holy Father and us,

The pope “puts his money where his mouth is” by visiting refugee centers, prisons, nursing homes, and hospitals. His physical presence in these institutions speaks volumes. He helps to remind us that God and His Church care and truly feel that God is close to them,” a smiling African immigrant once said to me. “He is a direct witness of the faith,” said the archbishop of Milan, Angelo Scola. “His ges- tures show what faith is all about. A person be- comes a witness when he/she is actively involved in what he/she talks about, thereby becoming an authoritative voice.”

Paying attention to the poor, being committed to helping and supporting the poor … this comes from the Gospel. It’s mentioned in the Gospel! And the pope is very evangelical, and this is obvious in the way he does things,” theologian Rogerio Gutierrez said in an interview with Fan- cier insider.

When Pope Francis traveled to Assisi, St. Fran- cis’ hometown, he visited the room where St. Francis stripped off his clothes. While there, Pope Francis had talked to meet with poor people in the center where they receive assistance. It was another chance for the pope to speak about the “poor Church” for the poor and of the impor- tance of “understanding” in order to be genuine and efficient witnesses of the faith in today’s world.

Ohio Dominican University has opened a new Dublin campus for its adult and continuing education program. Since June 1, it has been offering classes on the same suburban campus as its longtime partner, Columbus State Community College, at 6100 Shamrock Court. The location offers students un- limited access to a comfortable, spacious learning environment.

ODU’s new home in Dublin is the ideal location to meet the growing de- mand for a quality continuing education pro- gram,” said Karen Gray, ex- ecutive director of ODU’s adult and continuing education program. “This particular location also offers Colum- bus State’s Dublin students the ad- vantage of pursuing their bachelor’s degree at the same location as their associate degree.

ODU’s Dublin campus is adjacent to Interstate 270 and north of the highway’s exit at Fiddlet Crossing Boulevard, which offers easy access to students who live and work in Columbus’ northwest sub- urb. The location also offers free park- ing, a computer lab, and traditional class- room accommodations and amenities. ODU has a long history of offering working adults an opportunity to fur- ther their education around their sched- ule. Its programs have helped more than 2,600 adult students achieve their degree.

ODU’s adult and continuing education program offers evening classes at its new Dublin location and at ODU’s main campus on Vine Adorers Road in Columbus. The following degrees and certificates are available: associate of science in business administration; bachelor of science in accounting; bachelor of science in administration; certificate in accounting; and master of busi- ness administration. ODU also recently launched a master of science in medical management program, with a certificate option.

The program is open to students of any edu- cation background, visit odubusiness.edu/adult or call (614) 231-7400.

Four women who did an outstanding job during the June 1, 2014 Commissioning Service at Reynoldsburg St. Pius X Church. A Beautiful Day for a Senior Citizens Day Celebration!

Catholic senior citizens from around the di- ocese attended Father William Hahn’s 10th Anniversary of his ordination.

They have served our parish well and we look forward to many more years under his leadership.

Congratulations!

The ODU/GROW program sponsored by The Ohio State University Women in Engineering program in late July and early August. The program offers young women going into eighth grade the opportunity to find out about engineering and its importance. Students will participate in hands-on activities that get them thinking and working together as engineers by using their math and science skills.

Robert Wisniewski, Columbus St. Joseph Catholic School’s principal organ- ist and assistant music director, will present a recital on the church’s new organ at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, July 13. This recital, which opens Senior Citizens Day celebration earlier this month at Columbus Inmanstrous Congregational Church, Bishop Frederick Campbell celebrated Mass and joined participants at the luncheon. The bishop offered the lives and gifts of some of our most humble brothers and sisters, and thanked them for their sacrifice and dedication to the faith. This annual event is sponsored by the diocesan Office for Social Concerns. Bishop Campbell is pictured with Vince Comeretto (left) and Teresa Pasquinelli of Rayen School St. Pius X Church.

The church was founded in 1922 and promotes congregational singing as an integral part of wor- ship. It also fosters the composition of new hymns and education about the origins of existing hymn tunes and texts. In keeping with this, Wis- niewski’s program will include a congregational hymn, followed by a solo organ paraphrase of the hymn by the renowned American organist and composer Geric Hancock (1934- 2012).

The cathedral is at 212 E. Broad St. For further information, call (614) 241-2528, extension 188.
